

My Own Clear Line of Sight Relationships: The Social Landscape of Camp

“The real voyage to discovery lies not in seeing new landscapes, but in having new eyes. “

Marcel Proust

In order to distinguish my clear line of sight from CampWest to my home camp...

What feeling or idea sticks with me about the opening of CampWest?

What is something that I didn't know that I want to remember?

What shift in thinking or behavior could I make consciously to improve my relationships overall?

Applying shifts to camp:

What specifically can I do with campers this summer to create healthy relationships?

What can I do with my peers and colleagues?

What can I do with camp parents?

What's one commitment that I can make for a change in behavior, for each camp group, that will make a difference in creating healthy relationships for me and for others?

Who will I tell in order to anchor my good intentions?

“Let him that would move the world, first move himself.”

Socrates
